SURRENDER OR LOSE, ITALY WARNED

U-BOAT PACKS ARE DEFEATED BY FLAT TOPS

AIRMEN ON CARRIER SINK TEN ENEMY SUBMARINES

BY HAMILTON W. FARON

Washington, July 16 (AP)—"Baby flat tops" are playing a major part in driving axis submarines from the Atlantic, the navy revealed today in telling how fliers from a single escort carrier boat beat off two Nazi wolf-pack attacks on convoys, probably sinking ten U-boats.

Two "certain kills"—submarines from which a total of 41 prisoners were picked up by U. S. destroyers — were credited to planes from the stubby and ugly little carrier. Eight other U-boats disappeared after being straddled by bombs. Presumably they sank without tangible evidence of destruction.

No Vessels Damaged

Throughout the battles against the two wolf-packs—approximately 38 hours of fighting—merchant vessels guarded by the little carrier "B" and its planes plodded slowly eastward with vital war supplies. Not a merchantman was damaged.

Surfaced in the dusk, apparently in preparation for an attack as darkness fell, the first submarine was bombed by one of the escort carrier's planes. Depth bombs straddled the U-boat, which was not seen again. But a "kill" was not claimed—one anti-sub pilot explained that "to get credit for a kill you've got to bring back the submarine's periscope or the captain's hat."

Slipping along in the darkness, the wolf-pack pursued the convoy throughout the night, then moved in for an attack at dawn, when half-light outlines transports and cargo ships but conceals low lying superstructures of a submarine.

Guns Silenced

Dead ahead of the convoy the second submarine was attacked by planes in semi-darkness. Anti-aircraft guns barked as a plane dived in to attack. But the dive continued; the anti-aircraft guns were silenced; two bombs apparently hit the U-boat's stern; the raider circled crippled for an hour, then sank stern first.

Meantime another plane, this time a Wildcat fighter, enroute to aid the Avenger bomber in that fight, had spotted another U-boat. Other Avengers were called and again the commander ordered a fight. Again the planes were victorious. Depth bombs exploded on all sides of the U-boat and it sank stern first, but again without tangible evidence of a "kill."

At noon a fourth submarine, cruising boldly on the surface, was spotted. Depth bombs struck on its port side, it settled beneath the surface without forward motion, but again no positive evidence of sinking was obtained.

Crew Caught Napping

Through the afternoon the wolf-pack remained submerged to resume the attack near sunset. An Avenger found the fifth U-boat running on a course to intercept the merchant ships. Its crew was caught napping when the bomber screamed down in a dive and released its depth bombs. The submarine went out of control and submerged. It apparently came back an hour later and this time was hit by an entire load of bombs directly beneath its stern.

Definitely out of control, it settled, climbed back above the surface on a sharp angle, started down again, came back, and crewmen scrambled overside. A destroyer picked up 21 enlisted men, two petty officers and the U-boat's skipper, thus registering a "defi-

Conquest Of Sicily Proceeding Rapidly

Seizing seven Axis airports, closing in on four important cities and bombing the port of Messina just opposite the toe of the Italian port, allied armies are pressing the conquest of Sicily "far more rapidly than any of us dared hope," Acting Secretary of War Robert Patterson has reported. RAIDERS SMASH NAZI RAILWAYS

American Bombers Visit Abbeville; RAF Picks Brand New Target

London, Saturday, July 17 (AP)—United States medium bombers smashed at the railway yards at Abbeville, France, yesterday, while reports of a Swiss air alarm early today indicated another RAF night attack on Italy.

Moving in at dusk with a thick blanket of Allied fighters, the American bombers started fires in the German-occupied railway area as British and Dominion fighters engaged German interceptors, a communique said. Three Focke-Wulf 190s were destroyed by the Allied fighters, while one bomber was missing.

The Swiss alarm was reported in a Reuter dispatch from Zurich.

The bombardment of Abbeville followed a night attack by the RAF which cut an arc of destruction through occupied territory from the low countries to northern Italy.

The RAF's big bombers which have been following a practice of knocking out German war plants in rotation, picked off a brand new traget in the moonlight last night, delivering what a communique described as a concentrated and effective attack on the great Peugeot Motor Vehicle works at Montbeliard, France.

Montbeliard, near the Swiss frontier 10 miles south of Belfort, was raided for the first time.

While auxiliary intruders were plastering airfields and railways in Germany, France and the low countries, home-based Lancasters jumped across the Alps, hitting an electric transformer and switching stations at an unidentified site. This was the northern end of a squeeze joined in on southern Italy by Mediterranean-based bombers.

Seven bombers were lost in the night's operations from English bases.

Bourbon Christens New Fighting Ship At Superior Yards

Superior, Wis., July 16, (AP)—One of Uncle Sam's newest fighting ships, the USS Covington, was afloat today, sponsored by a Kentucky belle and christened wth a quart of Kentucky bourbon.

The Covington, one of the fleet of frigates being built in Great Lakes ports, was launched last night at the Globe Shipbuildng company yards. The ceremony was scheduled to be brief, but was curtailed additionally as the Covington slid sidewise down the ways five minutes ahead of schedule.

Attack On Europe Foreseen By Rome

London, Saturday, July 17 (AP)—The Rome radio in a broadcast heard by the London Daily Mail said today that six British battleships and four aircraft carriers and two American battleships had entered the Mediterranean for an "attack on Europe."

There was no explanation of the phrase "attack on Europe," but the Italians frequently have speculated on allied attacks other than those on Sicily.

Munda Base Plastered By 82 Tons Of Bombs

BY C. YATES McDANIEL

Allied Headquarters In The Southwest Pacific, Saturday, July 17. (AP)—More than 100 American planes unloading 82 tons of bombs on Japan's defense of the Munda air base Friday in one of the largest and heaviest air attacks delivered in a single day against one area since the opening of the New Georgia campaign.

Strong formations of Avenger torpedo bombers and Dauntless dive bombers rained high explosive and fragmentation bombs on enemy positions around Lambeti, two miles east of the airdrome.

In the afternoon, another large formation of raiders struck at the Munda airfield, key point in the central Solomons.

The absence of any reports on the further progress of American jungle fighters bearing down on Munda led to the belief that heavy rains may have slowed the pace of the land drive. Last reports indicated the drive was settling down to the methodical liquidation of enemy strong points, which are made up of foxholes and log bunkers.

Seven hundred miles to the southwest where Australians and Americans were last reported moving on Komiatum, within seven miles of the enemy air base of Salamaua, New Guinea, Boston attack planes struck at Japanese positions around Robdubi, two miles nearer the base.

The menace to Salamaua has been increased by the capture of Japanese positions at Mubo, 12 miles below it.

The great airdromes at Salamaua and Lae, only 20 miles north along the coast, were taken by the Japanese late in January, 1942, the second month of the war. The enemy found well developed airports there. Before the war they were bases for one of the world's largest freight airlines which handled supplies for gold mines in the interior.

As wartime bases they have been of great value to the Japanese. Capture of one or both by the allies would force the enemy to fall back to bases farther north and more distant from the shipping routes.

BEER DEALERS AIR COMPLAINTS

Liquor Commission Told Beverage Is Fairly Distributed

Lansing, July 16, (AP)—The state liquor commission, seeking to learn the cause of reported discrimination in beer deliveries, today was assured by the Michigan Brewers' association that the beverage is being distributed equitably by manufacturers.

Approximately 20 representatives of the association whose members manufacture 82 per cent of Michigan-produced beer asserted that brewers were following rationing schedules strictly and that irregularities in deliveries developed elsewhere in the line of distribution.

Chairman R. Glen Dunn said the commission next Friday would hear the wartime beer story of wholesalers, and that finally retailers would air their complaints.

Willard King, association president, said his group was "absolutely trying to distribute beer fairly." He asserted that while Michigan production of beer had increased eight per cent this year, exports decreased 12 per cent, indicating, he said, that brewers generally were attempting to accommodate state customers.

Association members agreed that they were under "strong pressure" for additional beer deliveries and that beer truck drivers were being offered bribes as high as 50 cents a case for extra supplies.

Alleged Pro-German Propagandist Found Guilty Of Spy Work

Washington, July 16 (AP)—A federal court jury tonight convicted George Sylvester Viereck, alleged pro-German propagandist, of violating the foreign agents registration act.

The jury, out for about nine hours, found him guilty of all six counts, charging him with failing to list all foreign principals for whom he worked prior to Pearl Harbor and failing to give the state department a comprehensive statement of his activities.

Justice Bolitha J. Laws had instructed the jury of nine men and three women that they could find Viereck guilty of any one or all of the six counts.

Under the new conviction, Viereck faces a possible maximum sentence of 12 years and $6,000 fine.

It was expected sentence would be imposed about July 23.

KISKA DEFENSE BEING SOFTENED

Naval Guns Emphasize Knox Promise To Drive Out Japs

Washington, July 16, (AP)—Navy Secretary Knox tersely asserted today that "we propose to drive the Japanese out of the Aleutians," while naval guns thundered emphasis to his words in regular bombardments of the enemy's island shore establishments at Kiska.

Amid indications that the repeated pounding of Kiska may be part of a "softening up" process in preparation for an invasion, Knox qualified his remark by saying: But just when and how we're going to do it, I can't talk about."

His statement followed quickly a communique telling of a United States warship standing off shore and shelling the enemy positions at Gertrude Cove on the southwestern shore of the island without opposition.

Knox said he did not know what type of defenses the enemy has placed in Gertrude Cove, which has been bombarded five times in the last ten days.

Only once have the Japanese returned the fire, even though the navy in each report has told only of single units—presumably cruisers or destroyers—engaging in the attack.

BY DANIEL DeLUCE

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, July 16, (AP)—Adopting the RAF's tactics of crushing and burning one axis industrial city at a time, the great allied North African bomber force yesterday turned its fury against Naples, Italy's chief seaport, and transformed it into a blazing inferno—possibly knocked it out as a factor in the waning Italian war effort.

Four huge waves of American Flying Fortresses deluged the stricken port with thousands of explosive and incendiary bombs, shattering the royal armory, demolishing acres of harbor and industrial installations and wreathing the city, famed for its onetime beauty, in smoke that billowed 20,000 feet into the air.

Allied headquarters estimated the damage done by the staggering blow to be as great as that inflicted upon the Sicilian port of Messina during the previous day and night, when an area two miles long and one mile wide was gouged from the heart of its harbor section.

Supply Port Knocked Out

It is through Naples, port for the capital of Rome, that the bulk of reinforcements and supplies for the hard-pressed axis defenders of Sicily must be moved now that the more convenient route across from the toe of the Italian boot apparently has been knocked out by the devastating attack on Messina.

The enemy's aerial defense of Sicily itself rapidly was approaching complete collapse as clouds of allied bombers and fighters swept the island, demoralizing axis communications and shooting up everything in sight.

"Very few enemy aircraft were seen during the day and few attempted to fight, although our fighters and bombers flew back and forth at will," said an allied announcement.

"You get the impression that the whole of Sicily is slowly burning up," was the graphic description given by a crewman of one of the hundreds of medium bombers

WILLKIE CALLED JOKE CANDIDATE

Anybody Can Beat Him In Illinois, Says Col. McCormick

New York, July 16, (AP)—Colonel Robert R. McCormick, Chicago Tribune publisher, in commenting here today on Wendell Willkie's challenge to him to enter Illinois' presidential preference primary next year, declared "anybody can beat Willkie in Illinois. He's just a joke out there."

Willkie, the 1940 Republican presidential nominee, said yesterday he would enter the Illinois preferential primary next April and stump the state if Colonel McCormick ran.

Willkie said he had nothing to say on Colonel McCormick's comments.

McCormick has not said or even indicated he would run in the primary. He has been asked to permit his name to be entered by resolution of the Republican nationalist revival committee. Recently organized with an announced aim to help maintain the Republican party as the "nationalist party" in American politics. At the same time the committee stated its opposition to Willkie.

Yesterday, in revealing his Illinois primary intentions, Willkie gave out for publication the following question, written by him, and the answer in his own handwriting:

"Have you seen reports that Colonel McCormick may run in the Illinois primary for the Republican presidential nomination."

"Yes, I certainly hope it is true. For then I could really make the issue clear—the greatest issue of the day—American relations to the rest of the world and liberal internal domestic policies."

Club Almost Goes Broke On Ragweed

Holland, Mich., July 16, (AP)—The Women's Literary club, seeking to alleviate hay fever suffering next month, offered a bounty of five cents for every hundred ragweed plants yanked up by the roots. The club set aside $25 for the project.

Four hundred youngsters tore up approximately 800,000 plants, sending the club members into emergency session.

The group boosted the appropriation to $400, called it money well spent and said the plan would be tried again next year.

OREL DOOMED; REDS ADVANCE ON VITAL CITY

GERMAN RESERVES CRUSHED; STALIN VISITS FRONT

BY LYNN HEINZERLING

London, Saturday, July 17 (AP)—Smashing through new German reserves hastily rushed into the threatened Orel area, Russian forces added six to ten miles yesterday in their advance on the vital city which the Germans have been fortifying for a year and a half.

The Soviet midnight communique and a special bulletin earlier said the advancing Soviet troops met 11 counter-attacks with concentrated fire power and repulsed the Germans with heavy losses.

Previous announcements had told of gains of 12 to 28 miles on the Orel front, and one Russian broadcast, recorded by Reuters said the Soviets had reached a point with 15 miles of the city as they pushed in from three sides.

Plight Desperate

(The British radio said that the plight of Orel was so desperate the Germans were forming a "taxicab army" using every type of truck and automobile to rush troops northward and eastward of Orel in an attempt to stem the Russian drive. The broadcast was heard by the United States foreign broadcast intelligence service).

The Germans were reported frantically strengthening thier lines on the Orel-Bryansk railway which also was menaced by the Soviet counter-offensive.

The Reuters Moscow correspondent said that Premier Stalin made a special visit to the Orel front recently where he personally directed the plans for the present Soviet drive.

The midnight bulletin recorded by the Soviet Monitor said that in one sector of the Orel area the Red army shattered 36 of 80 tanks flung at them by the Germans and routed two enemy regiments.

Many Tanks Disabled

An "advance to some extent" in the Kursk area south of Orel was reported in the special bulletin while the midnight communique said the Germans lost 2,000 men in a Russian attack that resulted in the capture of an enemy defense sector.

Twenty-five German tanks were disabled or hit by the attackers while prisoners were taken and war material captured in this thrust.

American Sherman and British Churchill tanks were reported spearheading the Red army drive.

It was presumed that the midnight bulletin's total of 2,000 Germans killed, 61 tanks disabled and four planes destroyed were in addition to tabulations given in the earlier special communique. This would boost overall German losses in 12 days to about 62,000 men, 3,242 tanks, and 1,766 planes.

In the Belgorod direction where the earlier German offensive had been smashed there were only

LAWS PUZZLING, CONGRESS TOLD

Legislation With Double Meanings Criticized By Roosevelt

Washington, July 16, (AP)—President Roosevelt took congress to task today for passing laws so ambiguous, he said, that their meaning is uncertain. He signed a bill extending the life of the commodity credit corporation (CCC), but with the expressed understanding that it means what he thinks it does—

That the office of price administration (OPA) can set standards for a commodity where it is essential to an effective system of price fixing.

The president's perplexity arose from the fact that congress dealt with OPA fixing of standards not only in the CCC measure, but also in another bill.

Price Administrator Prentiss Brown in his own interpretation had said earlier that, he understood, congress had outlawed grade labeling of hosiery, which OPA once planned to order, but had not closed the door to price-fixing by grades on such things as lumber and meat.

The president in a formal statement said the language in the measure relating to restrictions in the use of standards in maximum price regulations was so ambiguous that he felt it necessary to give his own interpretation of it to prevent further misconceptions.

YOUTHS DROWN ON LAKE HURON

Young People On Picnic Become Panicky; Seven Listed As Missing

East Tawas, Mich., July 16 (AP)—Two 16-year-old youths were drowned and seven others were reported missing after a group of more than 20 became panicky and leaped out of a scow being towed by a gasoline launch on Lake Huron tonight.

The victims were Ruth Smith, Bay City, and Harry Bascone, Caro. State police said that of the seven reported missing, two were listed definitely as drowned.

Missing were Wayne Cross and Shirley Peterson, both of Caro; Robert Poquette, Cheboygan; Hels Peterson, Midland; Bertha Smith, Poseyville; Ida Minthorn, Reese; and Shirley Dwyer, Saginaw.

Two of the youths who were in the excursion party were rescued by Thomas Marr of Detroit, who witnessed the mishap from the shore.

Another girl was saved by Gordon Allen, 15, of Midland, who leaped off the launch and held her above water until rescuers arrived in rowboats.

Scow Ships Water

Gordon MacAndrews, proprietor of a local boat livery, gave this story of the accident:

About 50 of the youths attending the Saginaw district Methodist Young People's Institute had gone for a boat ride, half of them in a 30-foot launch and half of them in the 20-foot scow which it was towing.

The boat and scow, traveling about 1,500 feet off shore, went up the lake about a mile and then turned around and headed for the dock. At this point some of the youths in the scow began moving toward the back.

He shouted to them to retain their positions, MacAndrews said, whereupon a number of them moved toward the front. This caused the scow to ship water and the passengers became panicky and leaped into the lake.

Coast Guardsmen dragged the area until dark.

Clerk In Highway Office Protests Shift To Escanaba

Lansing, July 16, (AP)—The state Civil Service department said today that its appeal board next week would hear a protest by a state highway department clerk who once was employed in the office of former Governor Van Wagoner against a hurry-up transfer order.

The clerk, Miss Jean Jarvis, formerly of Hancock, disclosed she received notice Thursday to report for duty Monday morning at the highway department's Escanaba office.

She said she had not been consulted first and did not want the transfer, protesting to the Civil Service department that the action was "unreasonable." Administration of the highway department changed from Democratic to Republican hands following the defeat of Lloyd B. Reid by Charles M. Ziegler for commissioner in the spring election.

OFFICE AIDE PROMOTED

Washington, July 16, (AP)—Maurice Latta, a White House office aide for more than 40 years, has been selected by President Roosevelt to be executive clerk for the executive mansion, succeeding Rudolph Forester, who died recently.

ALLIES FORGE FARTHER INTO SICILY PLAINS

LEAFLETS DROPPED; PRISONERS TOTAL OVER 20,000

BY DANIEL DeLUCE

Allied Headquarters, North Africa, Saturday, July 17. (AP)—A desperate battle raged late yesterday within 13 miles of strategic Catania whose fall would give the allies control of much of Sicily without the immediate necessity of occupation, and threaten the axis defenders with another Cap Bon disaster.

Catania was reported in flames.

Twelve more towns had been overrun by the allies, six of them by the hard-driving Americans in the interior, more than 20,000 prisoners had been bagged, and gains were scored all along the front from the Agrigento area on the American left flank to the Lentini sector 13 miles below Catania where the British collided with the Nazi Hermann Goering division and repulsed it with severe losses.

(A Vichy radio broadcast Agrigento, an important axis troop center, had fallen; Rome radio, heard by NBC, also said that the Americans had reached that city in a 10-mile gain in the extreme west; and Rome radio also said the battle of the Catania plain probably would decide the issue in Sicily.

(In London, the Daily Express said that it had learned that American and Canadian troops were pouring into the Catania plain after the capture of Vizzini to attack the main axis flank defenses while the British Eighth army continues its frontal assault.)

Odds Against Germans

Virtually all German forces thus far officially identified as being in Sicily now are concentrated on the Catania plain, seeking to stave off the strategic catastrophe that would be implied by the quick fall of the city itself.

Unsupported by their own air units, the Germans were reported fighting doggedly against growing odds.

After dumping hundreds of tons of high explosives on Sicily and the Italian mainland, allied planes today dropped leaflets bearing the message of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, who told the people the time had come "to decide whether Italians shall die for Mussolini and Hitler—or live for Italy and civilization."

Retreat Predicted

Hundreds of thousands of the leaflets, carrying to the Italian people the virtual ultimatum of the allied leaders to surrender honorably or be blasted out of the war, fluttered down from skies now largely dominated by allied air forces.

Observers, who believed the enemy had staked everything on the success of a counterattack, were confident that the allies, with an "appreciable number of tanks" al-

REVENUE STAFF CHANGES MADE

Earl Therriault Of This City Is Appointed Deputy Here

Appointment of two new deputy collectors of internal revenue and changes affecting others in the upper peninsula were announced here yesterday by John B. Fugere, Marquette, Upper Peninsula division chief.

One of the two new appointees is Earl Therriault of this city, who was sworn in here yesterday. Therriault's post of duty will be at Escanaba, but it has not yet been determined just which counties he will cover, Fugere announced.

William L. Reitmeyer of Stambaugh is the second new collector. Reitmeyer, a former federal employee, who has also had banking and insurance experience, has been named as deputy collector at Ironwood.

Joseph Kenz of St. Ignace, whose post of duty has been at Marquette, has been transferred to Sault Ste. Marie. Joseph P. Wenzel, present deputy collector at the Soo, will remain at this post also. William E. Ryan has been transferred from Detroit to Houghton, which is a new post in the upper peninsula.

Additions to personnel and changes in stations were made necessary because of the creation of a new division comprising only the upper peninsula and also due to the fact that withholding and other new taxes have created extra work, the division chief said.

The new appointments give the department of revenue a staff of seven deputies in northern Michigan in addition to Fugere, head of the division. Offices are located at Escanaba, Ironwood, Sault Ste. Marie, Houghton and Marquette.

Fugere announced also the appointment, effective August 1, of Miss Jane Wingmuth of Marquette as clerk-stenographer at the Marquette office. Miss Geraldine Hevener, who is serving in this capacity at present, will be promoted at that time to the position of teller, stationed at Marquette.

Air Control Saved Many American Lives In Sicily

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Allied Command Post, North Africa, (by wireless) — The biggest single factor in the rapidly progressing occupation of Sicily is control of the air. Because we have it, much is possible. If we had not been in command in the air we could not have escaped the most devastating losses.

Clapper

Hundreds of ships were massed in the narrow waters of the Mediterranean for the invasion. Their presence undoubtedly was known to the Axis through reconnaissance. On the night of the invasion, Allied pilots said, the sea was black with ships. One said they were spread out for 40 miles.

Only Allied command of the air prevented the Axis from bombing those ships in large numbers. We would not have dared to mass them that way if we had not been certain of our ability to keep the Axis air force off of them.

Landing on the beaches would have been a massacre like that at Dieppe if the troops had not been protected by the supremacy of their own air forces. Beach landings traditionally have been regarded as extremely costly. The landings in Sicily resulted in relatively few casualties considering the size of the operation. The enemy just wasn't around.

Encounter Few Fighters

Since the invasion our pilots have been cruising all over Sicily meeting comparatively few fighters. The chief trouble has come from anti-aircraft fire. There is considerable mystery as to what has become of the Axis air force in Sicily. Recently large numbers of enemy aircraft were observed on the fields in Sicily yet it never came out to fight or to attack Allied shipping concentrations.

As one of the bomber pilots said, our planes were reduced to twiddling their wings at each other. At times it seemed as if our planes were in more danger from each other than from the Axis, especially the new Mustang A-36 fighter-bomber which resembles the German ME-109.

Lieut. Col. John D. Stevens, of Laramie, Wyo., who led a fighter-bomber mission over Sicily on Monday afternoon, said "they all have run for cover."

You oculd see miles of empty roads with only an occasional truck, he said. "I saw a nice shiny automobile," he related. "It must have had a big shot in it. I wanted to come down and plug it but a hill interfered and I couldn't get at it."

A photographer, back from a mission over Sicily, said the line of fires extended back many miles into the interior.

Our Pilots Are Good

Our Flying Fortresses is the most discussed plane but in Sicily the medium bombers, Marauders B-26, Mustang light fighter-bomber A-36, Lightning P-38 fighter, which also does some bombing and deconnaissance are proving in their respective fields to be just as valuable as the Fortress in its.

We are producing great airplanes and the evidence already is written in history. But greater than the planes are the pilots and crews. You can hear them around the field, bragging about their respective ships as though they had personally designed them.

It takes Ernie Pyle to tell adequately about these pilots and crews, about the gunner who had a leg almost shot off yet still held his gun and not only shot down an ME-109 but took a picture to prove it; or about the heroic work of Flight Officer Stanley B. Farley, of Madisonville, Ky., who as co-pilot brought in a B-26 after the pilot was killed. Farley had to pilot the plane with one hand and hold the pilot's body off the control with the other.

When you see these men with their cool matter-of-fact skill, not strutting around as heroes but sitting around in greasy work clothes talking shop between missions that are pounding cracks in the Axis walls you have had an experience you will never forget.

SAYS

"HUMANITY" never was like that, we murmured as we emerged from seeing "THE HUMAN COMEDY". This, as you know, is the much discussed picture made from a book by the self-admitted Armenian-American genius, William Saroyan. HOMER (MICKEY ROONEY) a telegraph messenger boy; and LITTLE ULYSSES (JACK JENKINS), who is 5 freckled and will steal your heart, Homer learns about life as he delivers telegrams that come telling about births, success, trouble and death, all the things that make up human life. The motivating force that adds a story to the picture is a grim wire from the war department. We regret to inform you that your son Marcus . . .

77 TAKEN FOR ARMED FORCES

Additional Names Of Inductees Received By Local Board

The Delta county draft board yesterday was advised of the names of additional registrants from this county who were accepted for naval or military service at the induction examinations Monday in Marquette. The additions to the list announced Thursday bring to 77 the total number of Delta county men who were accepted at Marquette for the armed forces in the July induction.

The list received yesterday included the names of 13 additional men accepted for the navy, seven for the Marines and five for the army.

The additional men accepted for the Navy follows: Robert J. Willis, Lloyd W. Hendrickson, Carlton Mineau, Frederick C. Alm, Aeron Stein, Harold Haglund, Robert Haglund, Robert Erickson, Rune Ostlund, William Wyatt, Gerald Trekas, Harold Cook, Harold R. Manley and Roland H. Bramer.

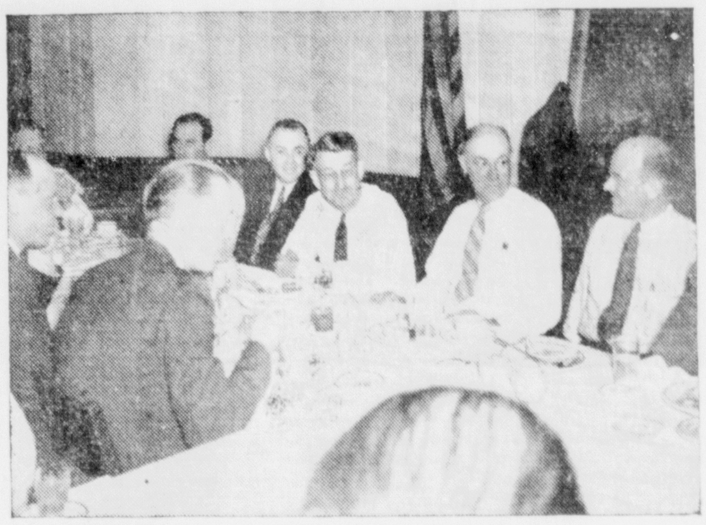

The men accepted for the Marines follow: Robert Donovan, Edward Demerse, Robert LaCosse, Edward Anderson, James D. Shandonay, Robert L. Molloy and Robert Thompson.

Francis D'Amour who was accepted for direct assignment to the Army Corps of Engineers and Ralph Sturdy, also accepted for the army, continued directly to Camp Grant. Rudy Paquet was accepted for the army and returned to his home for three weeks furlough. Merritt Nolden and Howard J. Micheau also were accepted for the armed forces, but their papers were delayed and the local board has not yet been advised what branch of the service in which they were inducted. It is believed that they were accepted for the army, however.

With 77 registrants accepted out of a total of 105 sent to Marquette, the rate of rejection, less than 27 per cent, was the lowest in months.

Daily Press Pictures Of C. Of C. Industrial Forum Meeting

Snapshots were taken at random by the Daily Press photographer at the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce forum meeting held Thursday night to launch the campaign to raise $50,000 for an extensive industrial development program. More than two hundred men and women attended the rally.

Harry D. Brackett, chairman of the industrial financing committee, announced late yesterday that preliminary reports from the solicitors indicated that drive for funds was going over satisfactorily. Some of the canvassers failed to contact their prospects, however, and so the work will be continued today.

Joseph Lambert, president of the Lambert Novelty company, which operates plants in Brooklyn and St. Louis for the manufacture of picture frames and mirrors, arrived in Escanaba late Thursday night to confer with officials of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce regarding plans for moving the firm's St. Louis factory to Escanaba. Accompanied by City Manager George E. Bean, City Engineer A. V. Aronson, Secretary Stephen L. Garber and William Skellenger of Gladstone, the manufacturer looked over the old tannery building at Wells yesterday and mapped tentative plans for remodeling the structure for his occupancy. Mr. Skellenger, former superintendent of the North Western Cooperage and Lumber company sawmill at Gladstone, has been retained by Mr. Lambert to supervise the assembly of the machinery after it is received from St. Louis.

The Lambert Novelty company has been engaged in the manufacturing business for more than twenty years, and is now considered the leading producer of a line of framed pictures and mirrors being sold by Kresge's, Neisner's and other chain stores throughout the country.

The head of the concern stated yesterday he desired to locate here as soon as the building can be gotten into readiness. Installation of heating equipment and other repairs are expected to require four or five weeks' time.

The factory will employ about 125 persons, mostly women, at the start, Mr. Lambert said. Later if it is found that the move can be made advantageously, serious consideration will be given to the idea of moving the Brooklyn operations here, he added.

City Forester Aids Shade Tree Owners

Working toward a unified plan of shade tree control along Escanaba streets, City Forester Robert Clayton is advising property owners in the planting, care or removal of trees on the parking strip between curbs and sidewalks.

This assistance is given when property owners make application to the forester for permission to plant, prune or remove trees along the streets. The city forester investigates conditions, issues the permit and advises on approved methods of tree control.

Purpose of the shade tree program for the city is to protect existing desirable trees and to encourage a unified plan of tree planting along the streets. Selection of certain tree varieties for certain streets, and the proper spacing of the trees to provide attractive growth and shade are the objectives.

Clearing away of obstructing trees and shrubs at street intersections in the interest of traffic safety is also a part of the city foresters work. A dozen or more intersections are to be inspected and improved starting next week.

Trees in the city's public parks were trimmed this spring. Trees in the vicinity of Carnegie Public Library also have been trimmed, and trimming of trees around city hall will be started soon. Improvement of the comfort station in Ludington Park has been finished, also under the direction of the city forester.

Seabee Officer—An article in a recent issue of a Seattle, Washington newspaper is of interest to residents of Delta county, and particularly to Rapid River residents. The article refers to Elmer E. Smith, former Rapid River resident and half brother of Guy Wellman. Smith, now a C. P. O. in the Seabees, grew to manhood at Rapid River but moved out west after the death of his mother 25 years ago. The article follows:

"Seabee Elmer E. Smith, chief petty officer, returned this week to visit his family at 1528 18th avenue, Seattle, after a year with a Navy construction battalion in the Pacific. Smith didn't have any medals to show his son, Elmer, Jr., age 7, or daughter Donna Lou, age 13, but he did bring home a letter of commendation from his commanding officer.

"The letter follows: 'Your work has been of an outstanding order and generally outside and beyond the scope of your regular line of duty. Your attitude has contributed to the success of your battalion. You are hereby commended for your work'. The letter of commendation was signed by Lieut. Commander Leonard Miscall of the 16th naval construction district.

Smith supervised the construction work of his battalion at Pearl Harbor. They erected warehouses and barracks, Smith explained, and worked in three shifts.

"You bet I'm proud of the Seabees," Smith said. "I couldn't belong to a better organization. Before joining the Seabees, Smith was assistant superintendent of construction at the naval air station in Kodiak.

He is home now on a three weeks leave.

Rules For Truck Operations Issued

New rules for operation of motor trucks by local for-hire carriers have been issued by the Office of Defense Transportation in Order 6A which supersedes previous order 6, Edward J. Konkol, Green Bay ODT district manager, said Saturday.

Under the new order, for-hire carriers operating motor trucks within an urban area for compensation are required to "eliminate wasteful operations and conserve motor vehicles, equipment and facilities," and are to lease trucks to the extent necessary to accomplish any of the purposes of the order.

It provides, subject to certain exceptions, that no local trucker shall make:

Fire Danger Great, Berry Pickers Told

The threat of forest fires continued high in the county yesterday and brought a warning to blueberry pickers to use extreme care with fire over the week-end unless rains come to end the danger.

D. H. Rasss, district supervisor of the Conservation Department, reported there were three minor fires along the North Western railroad track in the county yesterday, all set by sparks from a locomotive. They were at Bay Siding, Beaver, and four miles north of Rock. They brought to 23 the total number of fires in the county so far this season.

FLYING SALT

Helena, Mont. (AP) — The annual task of distributing salt to Montana big game herds is being done this year by airplane. The President Acts

WHEN President Roosevelt acted quickly and firmly on Thursday to end a heated altercation between two members of his official family, it brought new assurance and greater confidence in our governmental machinery at Washington. Vice President Wallace and Commerce Secretary Jesse Jones have been making the front pages of the nation with acrimonious debate over inter-departmental matters that should never have been publicly aired. Without regard for the close personal relations the chief executive has maintained in the past with both of these officials, in an identical letter to each, he stripped them of the powers and duties they have formerly held and created a new department, to assume charge of this nation's foreign economic warfare.

On the already burdened shoulders of Leo T. Crowley of Wisconsin, the president has placed responsibility for the procurement and delivery of needed strategic war materials from foreign lands. So Jesse Jones and Vice President Wallace can continue their quarrel, if they wish, but from here out it will be just a personal quarrel and not a public matter.

Crowley is recognized as one of the few officials at Washington, who does a lot of work and indulges in very little talking.

President Roosevelt must be credited with wise selection when he picked this quiet worker to take over the job formerly assigned to the administration's two fight-ingest wild cats.

Old Spirit Revived

ESCANABA literally came back to life Thursday night.

More than two hundred citizens crowded the Sherman hotel dining room to demonstrate that old-time booster spirit that a community must have in order to progress. The speakers and the listeners, as well, exhibited that grim determination to do something about bringing in new industries to take the place of those that have passed out and are expected to liquidate after contributing for many years to the well-being of Escanaba and the surrounding region.

At any other time, the announcement that $50,000 would be raised at once for an industrial development program would have come as a shock. Escanaba citizens accepted the challenge Thursday night without batting an eye.

As was explained at the forum meeting, there is still keen competition among American communities in the effort to get new industries. But it has been found that Escanaba stands a chance of winning her share if buildings can be provided for housing these manufacturing concerns.

Already a company manufacturing picture frames and mirrors, stands ready to establish a plant to employ 125 men and women, just as soon as the old tannery building, recently turned over to the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce by the stockholders of the Universal Cinder Products company, is remodeled for occupancy. Getting this industrial site into shape will mean an outlay of about $22,000 alone. But Escanaba is now aiming high, and it is desired that sufficient funds be raised in the current drive to bring other industries here.

It is this aggressive, do-it-now spirit that augurs success in this new community undertaking.

Coffee for Everybody

RATIONING of coffee will likely end about Aug. 11, according to an announcement by the Office of Price Administration, which also let out the news there should be no excuse for buying sprees as there will be ample supplies to take care of the needs of everyone. An added possibility is that restrictions on the use of sugar will be lifted in the near future.

The OPA announcement is concrete evidence that the Allied campaign to exterminate the Axis U-boats from Atlantic coastal waters is increasing in effectiveness. Imports of coffee from Brazil and other Latin American countries are now being received in large volume, and there is virtual assurance that this shipping will be maintained from now on.

It is to be hoped that the letting down of the bars on coffee will not give the American people the mistaken notion that the war is all over but the shouting. One good lesson, in fact, should be learned from this particular development. It should be accepted as proof that rationing was not instituted by the government merely to impose inconveniences upon the civilian public. The OPA is demonstrating that it is willing to abandon rationing whenever there is assurance there is a sufficient stock of particular goods to go around.

The home front in America is still living in clover. The sacrifices that civilians have been called upon to make thus far are really nothing compared to those being made by the people of other nations and our own soldiers on the fighting fronts.

Mining Accidents

COAL ADMINISTRATOR ICKES calls attention to the fact that men are being killed and injured faster in American coal mines than on the fighting fronts.

During the past year coal mine casualties were at the rate of 5998 a month as compared with only 4830 in battle each month since Pearl Harbor. That is a disturbing record, even though mining is concededly a dangerous trade.

Fortunately, the bulk of mining casualties are not fatal. In the average month since Pearl Harbor 880 fighting men have been killed, but only 123 miners.

Yes, We Have Spuds

THE potato shortage is over. The War Food Administration is begging us to eat potatoes so that they won't spoil. It is very confusing, but it can be explained.

Unco-operative weather delayed the early crop from Florida, which should have come in late April just as the winter carryover stock became exhausted. Then the belated Florida potatoes arrived simultaneously with those from nine other southern states—notably Alabama, Louisiana and the Carolinas—and from Tennessee and California. Now there is a glut of potatoes dug so young they will not keep long in storage.

The crop up to now is estimated at more than 36,600,000 bushels, contrasted with under, 30,000,000 from the same states last year. New Jersey and Long Island are about to come along, and in the fall Maine, New York, Pennsylvania, Idaho and other northern states.

The prospects are for plenty of potatoes through next winter.

WATER TO DRINK
(Cleveland Plain Dealer)

The ancient horror of shipwreck—thirst—appears to have been conquered by scientific research accelerated by the war. In recent weeks photographs have been released by American military authorities showing how plastic bags are utilized to take salt out of ocean water. Two separate methods have been devised in America, and the British announce invention of three types of stills which are simple enough for use in lifeboats.

The details of all are closely guarded military secrets. However, the public has been informed that chemicals are employed in the two processes making use of plastic bags. One discovery was made by Alexander Gotz, a physicist at the California Institute of Technology. The other is accredited to two naval lieutenants, William V. Consolazio and C. R. Spealman.

While this is an old problem which had often been struggled with in the past, it never before assumed the importance of the present. Spurring research was the Axis submarine campaign which terrorized the Atlantic Coast and carried its destruction even to the mouth of the Mississippi River. Also special protection was needed for aviators, what with airplanes spanning broad expanses of ocean around the globe. Planes cannot, like ships, carry large supplies of fresh water.

One has good reason to wonder to what extent science will alter life in a few more centuries devoted both to war and peace. It is possible that as a result of the inventions just described, and the improvements bound to follow, students of the future will be unable to comprehend those lines now known to almost every English-speaking person about "water, water everywhere"?

New York — Now that the Communist International has been dissolved again and the United States has comrade Stalin's generous permission to eliminate traitors without hurting his feelings, why don't we? Because the New Deal won't.

That our Communists are traitors there is no possible doubt. They are, as Mr. Biddle, the attorney general, has said, not that the obvious truth needed confirmation from him, enemies of our government and of our form of government and of the capitalistic system on which it is based. Their method is violence, riots growing into civil war, and their objective is a dictatorship of a minority of the people over the majority under the rule of a small committee or one man.

There is proof of all this in their literature and their history and if we accept the proof, as we must if we weigh the facts honestly and without cowardice, then we should realize that they are as dangerous to the United States as the Nazis and Fascists in our midst ever were. In fact they are more dangerous because they have enjoyed the special favor of our government for 10 years and have been helped into a position of threatening power in our sea commerce, our radio communication, our propaganda and our bureaucracy and government.

—EQUIVALENT TO NAZIS—

In their ethics, morals and purposes they are equivalent to the Nazis as two nickels are equal to a dime and the intense, arrogant nationalism of the Nazis does not constitute a material difference because the Nazis were trying to spread national socialism, under Hitler and from Berlin as the source, just as the Communists, working out of Moscow, worked to spread Communism. Like the Communists, the Nazis used internal discord as the preparatory poison and, when their victims were thoroughly confused and fighting in the streets or too badly at odds to make a united resistance, they moved in. France was a victim of disunity created by both Nazis and Communists but the work of the Communists was the deadlier at the fatal moment because they continued their sabotage in the factories and their treason in the army up to the hour of Hitler's triumph. They did this because Stalin was then still Hitler's ally through a treaty which touched off the war and they were able to do it because the French, then, like us, today, foolishly continued to regard the Communists as liberals, or at worst radicals, and to give these enemies the protection of their equalitarian, liberal laws.

It was a mistake to do so but we, in this country, who never took any lip from Hitler, did try to appease Stalin by dealing generously with the Communists. He would have had more respect for us and the two countries would understand each other better today, if we had let them go just far enough to identify themselves unmistakably and then given them the works as we give it to the Bundists.

—PRO-COMMUNISTS AT LARGE—

That, of course, would have left at large that element of sneaks known as the fellow-travelers who associate politically and otherwise with the avowed Communists but cannot be convicted under our laws of being actual members of the party or conspiracy. They would be a problem still but not dangerous if we were to treat them just as we have treated those who ran with the Nazis but didn't actually join them. Those nonjoining pro-Nazis are in the doghouse if not in the jailhouse, which is as it should be, but the difference and the danger is that the pro-Communists are not only all at large but busier than ever and are cultivated, consulted and encouraged by the national government and their power for future evil is thus enhanced.

Well, there is absolutely no hope that they will be rebuffed, to say nothing of their being ostracized, as long as Mr. Roosevelt is president. Mrs. Roosevelt, Ickes and Joseph H. Davies and others among our rulers, who show a healthy detestation of Nazis and pro-Nazis, find these pro-Communists, or fellow-travelers very attractive. None of these individuals ever left anyone in doubt where a pro-Nazi was concerned.

They were against them. But neither do they leave us in doubt as to how they stand on pro-Communists. They like them. Therefore we shall never be rid of the Communist and fellow-traveler under the New Deal but Tom Dewey, for example, or Taft, or Bricker or Jim Farley or Harry Byrd, if elected in 1944 would start the damnedest scramble of vermin out of Washington that this country has even seen.

The roads would be choked with them and, whatever else a new president elected from that list might do, and none of them would be pro-anything but pro-American, he certainly would go through those bureaus with tons of bug and rat powder and no Communist leader of any big union would ever be received with ceremonies at the White House and the officers of the Army and Navy would be relieved of the humiliating necessity to treat them with deference as they have to now.

Willkie you can cross off. On Communism and pro-Communism he can't be trusted. He may be gullible, but it is safer to suspect that, like John L. Lewis, he thinks he can use them up to a point in business or that, like Mr. Roosevelt, he likes them.

"I've Come To Shorten The War For You"

Good Morning!

By The Bugler

DROWNING—Resuscitation of the apparently drowned means just what it says. You can't resuscitate a drowned person — for a drowned person is dead. If they respond to resuscitation and live they were only apparently drowned.

Dunathan

All of which may sound like quibbling with words, but The Bugler has a purpose. He would like to have you know that even if the City of Escanaba should purchase six or fourteen resuscitators not one drowned person will be saved—but they would save the life of the apparently drowned.

Some folks have the idea that drowning victims can be in the water for anywhere up to several hours and if resuscitation is practiced he should live. Because of this mistaken opinion, the city's one inhalator, operated by the city fire department, has been thought a falure.

But drowning is such a decisive thing. The water fills the lungs and asphyxiation follows in a matter of minutes—not hours.

HOW LONG? — It isn't only nowadays people believe that drowning comes slowly. Back hundreds of years "authorities" told of cases where persons were able to stay under water for five, ten or oven fifteen minutes—and come up none the worse for wear.

And professional "travelers" wrote of pearl divers in the South Seas who stayed under for a half hour. It was the bunk, of course—but it helped to sell their sensationally written books. Modern observation and medical science has proved that submersion cannot be continued more than three minutes, and that resuscitation after five minutes under water is practically impossible.

So if you drown, make sure they fish up the body and start resuscitation within five minutes. Otherwise you'll be swimming through fleecy clouds wearing a heavenly kimono, rather than swimming through the water in a bathing suit.

NO HIPPO—At the city fire station the other day The Bugler met Martin Paye of Detroit, salesman for a company manufacturing resuscitators. It was from this company the city purchased one of the resuscitating machines which, incidentally, is guaranteed to do many things—except bring you back to life after more than five minutes under water.

Paye is interested, of course, in the subject of how long you can stay under water and live. He was out at the Detroit zoo one day and watched the hippopotamus dunking himself in and out of the water in his tank.

"He would go down and come up regularly, and I decided to time him to see how long he could stay under," Paye said. "I took out my watch and checked him each time he went under — and the longest time down was not more than two minutes.

"When you stop to think the hippo lives much of its life in water, and has an enormously large pair of lungs, you'll understand why a man can seldom stay under water for two minutes," Paye added.

TOO MUCH—What The Bugler is trying to put across is that the public should not be too quick to criticize the city firemen for failure to bring a drowned person back to life. If they are drowned they're dead and no amount of resuscitating eqhipment, expertly handled, can bring them back to life. They can resuscitate only the apparently drowned, persons who have been under water for five minutes or less.

Most important, therefore, is the quick removal of the victim's body from the water. Still more important is to know how to swim—so you won't join the classification of "a victim's body."

Red Cross life saving courses have been given at the Escanaba swimming beach. Trained life guards are in attendance there. So far (knock on wood) no drownings have occurred at the beach or in the Ludington park area this season. Public cooperation can help keep this record up by observing one simple rule:

Swim only in the designated area at the shore, and then at hours of the day at which the life guards are on duty.

OTHER USES—The resuscitator purchased by the city replaces an old inhalator which has been in service for 15 years. During those 15 years the inhalator was used successfully in helping save the lives of 16 persons who had attempted suicide by turning on the gas, or by breathing car exhaust fumes. Little publicity attended these cases.

"People try suicide in private, but they drown in public," said one of the city firemen.

And so through the years most people became convinced the inhalator was useless. The inhalator is of great value, but it must be used in conjunction with manual artificial respiration to simulate normal lung action.

The new resuscitator, inhalator and asperator (that describes the new machine) produces mechanical respiration. But don't expect it to bring to life a drowned man. He's dead.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Pearson

Washington—Inside fact is that despite Jesse Jones' bull-voiced demands for a Congressional investigation of his row with Vice President Wallace, his close friends were trying to calm him down and urged that an investigation should be the last thing he wanted.

They knew what apparently he did not know, that there were a lot of documents in the files which wouldn't look so good if spread on the record before Congress.

For instance, on July 5 he issued a blast against the Vice President contending that Wallace's Board of Economic Warfare had held up the over-all agreement with Peru. This, he said, had expired in September, 1942, and because of BEW stalling, Jesse asserted, it had not yet been renewed.

However, Jesse apparently did not know that his own Assistant Secretary of Commerce and right hand man, Will Clayton, had written a letter to the BEW asking that the Peruvian agreement not be renewed. Clayton wrote the letter on April 3, 1943, stating that Warren Lee Pierson, another of Jesse Jones' right hand men, had just come back from Peru with the latest information and that the matter should be held up.

Presumably Jesse did not know what his own chief assistants were doing when he made the charge against the Vice President.

This is one of the chief complaints against the Secretary of Commerce, who personally is considered one of the most likeable men in Washington. "Uncle Jesse" has a host of friends, but he also has about as many jobs as he has friends, and it is humanly impossible for any man to handle so many at one time.

If "Uncle Jesse" stuck to his knitting as Secretary of Commerce, which Herbert Hoover made one of the most important cabinet jobs in Washington, he probably would rank with Hoover as one of the best Secretaries of Commerce in recent history. But when he sets up a dozen and one different agencies—Rubber Reserve, Defense Plants, Petroleum Reserves, Defense Supplies, Metals Reserve, War Damage, etc,—then no man, no matter who he be, can keep track of them all.

—MONEY CHANGERS—

The ingratiating public relations expert of the Pennsylvania Railroad slid smoothly among newsmen during the recent ICC hearing which deliberated the railroad's right to issue bonds through Kuhn, Loeb with competitive bidding.

Perhaps this was why a certain salient fact brought out at the hearing failed to reach the public.

This was: the strange circumstance by which nine directors of the Pennsylvania were in a position where their own investment companies would profit from purchase of the bonds.

In other words, the railroad voted to issue $28,483,000 of bonds through Kuhn, Loeb, despite the fact that Halsey, Stuart of Chicago and Otis and Co. of Cleveland were ready to buy the bonds at par, which they declared, would save the railroad about $580,000.

However, the Pennsylvania directors voted to get less money for the bonds. If the railroad got less money, the financial houses who bought the bonds would have to pay less. It was a better buy for them. And nine Pennsylvania directors — a majority—serve as directors or executives in purchasing "bargain" bonds.

Here is the line-up:

1. The Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co. was scheduled to buy $1,000,000 of bonds through Kuhn, Loeb. It has six of its directors on the board of the Pennsylvania Railroad: Thomas Newhall, James E. Gowan, T. S. Gates, L. T. Beale, M. W. Clement (who is president of the railroad) and R. T. McCracken.

2. The Mellon Securities Corp. was scheduled to buy $1,700,000 of the new bond issue. R. K. Mellon, nephew of the late Secretary of the Treasury, is a director of the Pennsylvania and also 50 percent owner of Mellon securities.

3. The Girard Trust Co. is scheduled to take $305,000 of the new bond issue, and four of its officials also are directors of the Pennsylvania: James E. Gowan, President of Girard; M. W. Clement, C. J. Ingersoll, and W. S. Franklin.

4. The Prudential Insurance Co. is scheduled to take $2,395,000 of the new issue. Its president, Franklin D'Olier, is also a director of the Pennsylvania.

These interested directors accepted the Kuhn Loeb bid proposal without competitive bidding and despite the fact that Halsey, Stuart and Otis and Co. were offering a better price.

Now the Interstate Commerce Commission is deliberating as to whether the Kuhn, Loeb deal should be set aside. Upon the outcome depends the whole question of whether the competitive bidding reforms proposed by FDR back in the New Deal days will be adopted by the railroads or dropped like a hot potato.

—LABOR TO THE POLLS—

The AFL and CIO have long been at swords points on a lot of things, but one thing is now drawing them together—the anti-strike bill.

Behind-the-scenes, a lot of political cooperation is being planned for the autumn of 1944.

Both big labor groups are boiling mad over the anti-strike bill and determined to get revenge on every Congressman who voted for it. Under the bill, they cannot contribute to the campaign fund of a political party, but this does not prevent them from organizing their own political workers and waging their own campaign for any candidate.

Already plans are being laid to do this very thing. First campaign will be to register every labor voter, especially those who have moved to new war plants and shipbuilding areas.

Water Pumpage Is Near Summer High

Escanaba water consumers used a total of 2,575,550 gallons of water on July 13, the largest amount of water pumped any one day so far this year, and within 300,000 gallons of the previous all-time high, it was reported yesterday by S. J. Shank, superintendent of the water department.

For comparison, the minimum pumpage for one day is about 1,100,000 and occurs during the winter time. Since the pumpage on Tuesday this week was more than twice that amount it indicates that on hot summer days about half the water pumped goes on gardens and lawns.

Water consumption during the month of June totaled 36,358,300 gallons. Of this total, 29,192,800 gallons came from three of the city's five deep wells and 7,165,500 gallons was pumped from the bay. When a fourth well is in operation the pumping of water from the bay will be halted altogether.

A Daily Prayer In War Time

For Helpful Hands

In the new unity that had come to a world at war against Thy foes, O Lord of truth and mercy, we pray for a broader and heightened sense of personal responsibility. We thank Thee that Thou hast called us to be sharers in earth's greatest crisis and task. Enlarge our vision that we may be alert to all the little ways in which we may further the great enterprise. Cheerfully we would accept every sacrifice laid upon us by authority, and heartily would we undertake every new duty that we may discern. Stir us into a new sense of our world citizenship. Enliven our imaginations that we may understand the greatness of the new earth-wide social order that must follow the war. Deliver us from all selfish and sordid and partisan feelings. By our loyalty, by our neighborliness, by our prayers and by our personal activities, enable us to be helpers of Thee in bringing to pass Thy Kingdom of peace and righteousness. This we ask in the name of Christ, who did always the things that please the Father. Amen.—W.T.E.

The final clue will lead to a place outside of the city, where a weiner and marshmallow roast will be held.

"Let us strengthen ourselves in the faith which is the core of our American tradition"

There's one thing all of us can do . . . . .

GO TO CHURCH THIS SUNDAY

Each in his own way, every good American is trying hard to serve his country today.

There is one thing that all of us can do.

We can re-awaken in our hearts the spiritual conviction in which our nation was born.

We can strengthen ourselves in the fatih which is the core of our American tradition . . . faith in God.

In that faith our forefathers founded the Republic . . . shaped our institutions . . . secured our freedom.

Humbly and simply, we must now return to their passionate faith in a God before Whom all men are free and equal. Such faith made America's beginnings strong . . . in it we must find our strength and purpose now.

This Sunday— why not attend a local church. And there, with your fellow Americans, seek the strength and confidence that only faith in the eternal truths can give us.

America needs such faith today—in you—in all of us. It alone can bring us a true victory . . . it alone can give a meaning to our future.

Make Your Faith . . . Attend Church Regularly

Make Your Faith

an active, daily part of your personal life. Go to church regularly. Support your local church . . . find time to give it more of your time, your strength.

Make it your resolve, especially during war tension to attend divine services at your house of worship, and to pledge extra support for your local church in meeting the heavy burdens which war has placed upon it as it seeks to minister to a war-torn world.

LOGGING CAMP MAN MISSING

Fay Nichols, 58, Gone Since July 7; Police Seek Information

Fay Collins Nichols, 58, employed at Fred Paul's camp on Mahoney lake in the northern part of Schoolcraft county, has been missing since about eight o'clock on the evening of July 7. A appeal was issued yesterday by Sheriff John M. Hewitt for information regarding him which will lead to locating him.

Nichols is five feet, six inches in height and weighs 160 pounds. His right eye had been removed a short time ago. Paul's camp, where he was employed, is cutting timber for the Newberry Lumber and Chemical company. Men at the camp saw Nichols take a small boat and cross the lake July 7 and go into the woods. No word had been received from him since.

Crews from the logging camp as well as other searchers working under Conservation Officer Julius Thorson of Munising have conducted an unsuccessful hunt for him in the territory surrounding the camp. Because of the fact that he may have decided to go to another camp to look for employment, the sheriff's department here is now asking public aid in furnishing information which will lead them to determine his whereabouts.

George J. Nicholson, named temporary chairman of the Schoolcraft county unit of the National War Fund at a meeting last week, was nominated permanent chairman at a meeting held Wednesday evening at his home. Phillip Gamache; treasurer, Leonard Males; board of directors, Joseph L. Heirman, Clarence Cowman, Mrs. Grace LeRoy, Thomas Mulrooney, Helen McLaughlin.

Briefly Told

Latter Day Saints—An all-day meeting will be held at the Latter Day Saints church at Gulliver, Sunday, July 18, beginning at 9 a. m., with preaching and a baptimal service. APPLICATIONS FOR A'S SLOW

Board Asks Speedup; Seeks Volunteers For Processing

Schoolcraft county auto owners should file their applications for A gasoline books immediately if they have not done so, the local war price and rationing board said yesterday. Despite the fact that the number of applicants for the county this year is expected to be down from 1,800 to 1,600, only a little over half of that group had filled out their blanks and returned them to the local board office by last night. A total of 895 applications have been received so far with the majority of those at the office processed and the A books mailed out now.

The new A books will be valid next Thursday. Many auto owners will want to use their books at that time or within a few days of July 22. They will be disappointed, however, if they do not make their application in time for the office here to handle them by that time.

Volunteer workers are being sought to carry on the processing of the books because that is too much for the office staff at the ration board to handle by themselves entirely without some assistance. They are being sought for work on Monday and Tuesday afternoons. Anyone who can donate some time during one or both of those afternoons is asked to call the ration board office and inform them when they can serve, including the day or days and hours they will be available.

Jerome McNamara, who has just completed his boot training at Great Lakes, is spending a few days here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John McNamara.

REPAIRS START ON HIGHWAY 94

Five Miles Of Highway To Be Smoothed At Cost Of $10,000

Repair of five miles of M-94 north from Deer street to the bottom of the Stony Cut hill was started Thursday by a state highway department crew of 20 men. The work will include the filling of holes and levelling of the road to conform to the highway's present crown, State Senator Joseph LaFramboise said Thursday.

LaFramboise stated that if the highway was scarified and then rebuilt there would be a possibility that it would have to be considered new construction and could not be done at the present time. Instead the highway will be rebuilt to the same crown which it now has, he said, using chipped stone, tar and a binder of finer stone to fill and repair the road.

Smoothing of the highway and other work on the way, including removal of light polise away from the highway and ditching, is to cost $2,000 per mile with $10,000 allowed for the entire job.

In a telephone conversation with State Highway Commissioner Charles Ziegler earlier this week, LaFramboise said the highway commissioner had told him that M-94 was being placed on his list of highways destined for postwar improvement. The senator was told that the work would include the elimination of a number of bad turns and other work on the route.

Swimmers' Itch To Be Combatted By More Poison

State Stream Control Commission employees are expected here this week end to start treatment of four or five bathing beaches throughout the county designed to poison the disease-bearing snails which spread the "swimmer's itch". The work was started first several years ago and during that time has cut the show of skin disease from bathing in a number of lakes throughout Schoolcraft county.

It is expected that about two tons of the copper chemical compound will be used to poison the disease-bearing snails which spread the itch in bathing areas in this county.

Milton P. Adams, secretary of the State Stream Control Commission, earlier this year stated that the campaign during the past two years had materially reduced the infestations of the skin disease in bathing waters of the northern half of the Lower Peninsula. The treatment has also been successful in Upper Peninsula areas.

NEW SPOTTING POST IN USE

Observation Tower Above City Garage Building Is Improvement

Spotters of the Gladstone Aircraft Warning system now do their weekly stint from a new observation tower atop the municipal garage.

A new roof has been constructed on the city hall and city officials decided that the observation post should be moved to the garage nearby.

The new observation tower is an improvement over the old in that the arrangement of windows is better and allows ventilation for summer months.

The interior has been lined with veneer instead of pressed wood or plaster board.

In order to reach the tower a stairway has been constructed at the rear of the garage on the north side.

S. Sgt Frank Lusic Is Picture Story Subject

Staff Sgt. Frank T. Lusic, city, right waist gunner on the Flying Fortress "Meathound" and veteran of many a foray over Nazi Germany, is the subject of a picture story titled "How A Gunner Dresses" appearing in the June 12 issue of "Illustrated," English picture newspaper published in London.

All pictures of the series, eight in all, are colored and the cover of the newspaper which is printed in tabloid style bears a large colored picture of Sgt. Lusic bearing ammunition belts to the Fortress.

The first picture shows him with a large pile of clothing, all of which he must don, scattered about on the floor near him. First comes the GI longhandles or government issue woolen underwear. Socks are British. He then slides into an electric suit which is made of virgin wool in two layers wired like an electric blanket. After this come the electric boots of felt with rubber soles. A big Turkish towl about the neck comes next. Then comes the sheep lined leather flying suit, flying boots of soft leather, fleece lined, and fleece lined flying helmet. This is followed by a "Mae West," life-saving vest which can be automatically inflated and is painted bright yellow so it may be readily seen, anti-glare goggles and finally a parachute. A seat chute is used so as not to impede action in close quarters.

Sgt. Lusic is 22 and a son of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Lusic, 1708 Minneapolis avenue. He trained at New Biggs Field, El Paso, Texas; Gowen Field, Boise, Idaho; Topeka Air Base, Topeka, Kas.; Smoky Hill Air Base, Salina, Kas., and Hendricks Field, Sebring, Fla., and he qualified as an aerial gunner and received his wings on July 20, 1942 at the Las Vegas Gunnery School, Las Vegas, Nevada.

He has a brother in service, Pvt. Adolph Lusic, who is training at Fort Jackson, South Carolina.

BUMS THUMPED 3-2 BY BRAVES

Kiss-And-Make-Up Talk By Rickey Just Puts Bats To Sleep

Boston, July 16. (AP)—Branch (The Reverend) Rickey made a special speech to the Brooklyn Dodgers today to restore peace to the troubled Bums, but apparently all Branch The Reverend succeeded in doing was to put their bats to sleep.

For, after he completed his "kiss and make up" lecture, the Dodgers went out on Braves Field and were thumped 3 to 2 by the Boston Braves. Nate Andrews, the husky right-hander, hand-cuffed the Brooklyns with five hits to chalk up his seventh win of the year, but the big damage was done by Johnny McCarthy, who, incidentally, was once a Dodger, himself.

With the score tied in the ninth inning, one on and one out and Freddy Fitzsimmons serving them up as the third Brooklyn elbower of the day, Johnny pounded out a triple to break up the ball game and pin the fourth defeat of the campaign on Fitzsimmons.

Score by innings:

Brooklyn	100	000	100	—	2	5	0
Boston	020	000	001	—	3	10	3

Higbe, Allen (2), Fitzsimmons (7) and Bragan; Andrews and Kluttz.

Bluejackets Tamed By Henshaw; Tigers Take 1 to 0 Verdict

Great Lakes, Ill., July 16. (AP)—Roy Henshaw yielded eight hits—seven singles and a double—and allowed only one Bluejacket to reach third base in pitching Detroit to a 1-0 victory over Great Lakes today.

It was the Sailors' fifth defeat in 10 games against major leaguers and their seventh setback in 38 contests this season.

The Tigers scored their lone run in the sixth inning, on singles by Al Unser and Roger Cramer.

The losing pitcher was Tom Ferrick, who was with the Cleveland Indians last year.

Score by innings:

Detroit	000	001	000	—	1	8	1
Great Lakes	000	000	000	—	0	8	1

Henshaw and Unser; Ferrick, Hallett (9) and Robinson.

BASEBALL HANGS ON

Baseball is beginning to rise from the floor in Escanaba, thanks to the junior baseball league and with particular thanks to Alvin Ness, the king pin of that league. Moreover, baseball is showing more signs of life here this year than during the past several seasons and there can no longer be any doubt that the great national game is heading for a rebirth of popularity in this community.

The junior league composed of four local teams of 'teen age players is a long cry from the days when Escanaba was represented with an all paid team of semi-professionals and when baseball parks were packed to capacity for weekend games. Nevertheless, the junior league is keeping alive a local interest in the sport, and, more important, the league provides the only opportunity for youngsters to develop a playing interest in the game. Ness reports a marked improvement in the quality of play this year as compared with a year ago. Some of the lads show unusual promise.

By keeping alive an interest in baseball here now and developing young players in the game, Escanaba may well anticipate a part in the post-war baseball enthusiasm that is almost certain to sweep the nation.

COURTESY RUNNER

Over the years the baseball code has been shaped into a workable set of rules that covers virtually everything that could happen in a baseball game. There is one situation not covered in the rules, however, and that is the extent of courtesy that courtesy runner is entitled to. Next year's rules may provide the answer.

The matter came up in Chicago during the recent White Sox-Cleveland series. Black Mack of the Indians, was hit on the elbow by a pitch from Johnny Humphries, necessitating minor repairs. To keep the game moving, Umpire Charles Berry cast an inquiring look at Manager Jim Dykes and Dyke's responding now signaled acquiesence to the use of a "courtesy runner", a procedure used only a relatively few times each year. Russ Peters was designated to run for Mack, with the understanding that his use as a ghost runner would not prevent Mack from returning to his second base position at the start of the next inning, which he did.

That night Lou Boudreau was asked whether he could have used Peters later in the game, either as a pinch hitter or emergency fielder, had the necessity arisen. Boudreau wasn't sure, so the umpires were consulted. Bill McGowan said no, Umpires Berry and Joe Rue said yes. Boudreau added that if he knew he couldn't use Peters as a pinch hitter or emergency fielder, he certainly wouldn't have used up his one available utility fielder as a ghost runner.

The matter is one that is almost certain to get an official interpretation in the 1944 rule book.

HIT AND MISS

The freakiest baseball shot of the year: A foul from Mel Ott's bat in the fifth inning of the July 4 opener at Polo Grounds dropped kerplunk into a fan's cup of beer . . . The Brownies played to a 4,619 crowd on July 7 but only 1,382 paid . . . The others were divided as follows: 63 blood donors, 461 servicemen in uniform, 260 girls, 1,372 boys and 1,081 women . . . Rogers Hornsby has won his fight to collect $5,000 from the Milwaukee baseball club for the sale of Prince Oana, now the property of the Tigers . . . The National Association president, W. G. Branham, ruled that Milwaukee was in error in reporting that Oana's draft status had been changed from 3-A to 1-A.

CROSETTI'S BAT NIPS ATHLETICS

Dickey And Keller Back On Job; Yankees Take 6 To 5 Decision

New York, July 16. (AP)—The Yankees' sore-back and sore-leg set—Bill Dickey and Charley Keller—came back to work today and the Bombers beat out the Philadelphia Athletics 6 to 5, but it was little Frankie Cresetti's bat that spoke the big piece.

The snappy shortstop veteran, who has put new life in the Yankee infield since being called off the bench a few weeks ago, put some of the same in the Bombers' batting attack this time with three singles, the last of which broke a deadlock and sent the winning run home in the eighth inning.

Score by innings:

Philadelphia	000	000	410	—	5	9	0
New York	302	000	01x	—	6	12	1

Flores, Arntzen (3-, Besse (7) and Wagner; Wensloff, Russo (7) and Dickey.

Many Boats Missing In Port Huron Race

Port Huron, Mich., July 16 (AP)—Barring last minute withdrawals, 15 or 16 sailing craft, the smallest group in more than a decade, will come to the starting line at 2 p. m. (Eastern War Time) tomorrow for the 19th annual Port Huron to Mackinac Island race.

Five craft, including the Scratch Boat, Tom Petzold's Josephine III, arrived here early this afternoon and were given formal inspection at 6 p. m. Under the racing rules all craft must report for final check up before being permitted to enter the contest.

Other racers on hand today were the Kittiwake, Fugitive, Arethusa and Dorjack.

Missing from this year's entry was last year's winner, the 52-foot Yawl Hostess II, which covered the 240 mile Lake Huron course in about 50 hours. Another absentee was Charles E. Sorensen's White Cloud, which like Charles W. Becker's Hostess II., has been sold to Chicago yachtsmen.

This year's dash for the Straits will start off Gratiot Beach, with the coast guard keeping both contesting craft and visiting vessels clear of the regular traffic lanes in the lake.

Nineteen boats started last year against 31 the year before and 40 in 1939.

Sewell Wins 13th Over Cards, 9 to 5; Pirates Moving Up

Pittsburgh, July 16. (AP)—Rip Sewell won his 13th game of the season today as Pittsburgh defeated St. Louis, 9 to 5, aiding in his own victory by rapping out three hits, including a double and stealing a base.

Bob Elliott was the hitting hero, counting three doubles and a single.

Pittsburgh's victory, coupled with Brooklyn's defeat by Boston, moved the Pirates to within three and a half games of the second place Bums.

Score by innings:

St. Louis	000	220	010	—	5	15	1

COACH GETS VACATION

Evanston, Ill., July 16, (AP)—Tom Robinson, Northwestern university swimming coach since 1910, has been granted a year's leave of absence to recover from the effects of injuries suffered in an automobile accident several months ago.

His coaching duties will be taken over by William Peterson, a member of Northwestern's physical education staff since 1931.

ALL-STAR ROSTER GROWS

Chicago, July 16 (AP)—The college all-star football squad which will meet the Washington Redskins the night of August 25 had reached 32 in number today with the addition of quarterback Richard Renfro of Washington State College and end Rudy Smeja of the University of Michigan.

"Lie-Detector?"

The "ordeal of bread and cheese" was an early method of determining guilt of criminals in England. A criminal was fed dry bread and cheese and, if he could not down it without choking, he was considered guilty. Many prisoners went to their doom because they were dry-mouthed and choking with terror and could not get the dry fare down.

CASTOFF BRINGS DODGERS $7,500

Bobo Offers To Buy His Release, But Browns Prexy Says No

New York, July 16, (AP)—Joe Medwick, only three years ago considered one of baseball's most valuable properties, tonight was just another $7,500 ball player.

The New York Giants today claimed him from the Brooklyn Dodgers for that waiver price, the transaction being the second in recent days involving a prominent Brooklyn athlete. Louis (Bobo) Newsom, pitcher, was traded to the St. Louis Browns last Wednesday.

Medwick, after a spectacular career with the St. Louis Cardinals, on June 12, 1940 was the chief figure in a six-player, $100,000 transaction between the Cardinals and Dodgers.

Five days after joining the Brooklyn club he was beaned by a pitch thrown by Bob Bowman of the Cards, and since then has not lived up to what was expected of him, although he has yet to hit less than .300 in the big show.

Starred With Cards

This season he has been used largely in a pinch-hitter role, and it is reported that Brooklyn Prexy Branch Rickey made several previous attempts to trade him. He was offered to the Giants before the June 15 trading deadline, but Giant Manager Mel Ott refused to give up shortstop Billy Jurgess and additional players Rickey wanted in the deal.

Medwick, now 31, came up to the Cardinals from Houston in 1932 to launch a spectacular batting career that reached its peak in 1937, when he hit .374 to win the National league's most valuable player award. He hit .332 in 1939, the year before he was traded to the Dodgers. He dropped to .301 in 1940, rose to .318 in 1941, and then slumped to an even .300 last year, his lowest mark.

Although coming close upon the heels of the Newsom deal, the Medwick transaction is in no way related to that incident. Newsom was traded as an aftermath to last week's player rebellion resulting from disciplinary action taken by Manager Leo Durocher against Newsom.

PITCHERS REBEL

St. Louis, July 16, (AP)—The other half in the Louis (Bobo) Newsom transaction — pitchers Fred Ostermueller and Archie McKain—rebelled today, demanding more pay to meet increased living costs in the east before reporting to Brooklyn.

The veteran hurlers, traded by the St. Louis Browns to the Dodgers for Bucky Buck, were supposed to leave for the east tonight, but Ostermueller said they would remain here until they conferred with Branch Rickey by telephone.

In the meantime, Don Barnes, president of the Browns, talked with Newsom over the telephone and the right handed pitcher again declared he would not report. He offered to buy his release but this Barnes refused.

"Newsom will play for the Browns or he'll not play for anybody," Barnes declared, when he was informed Newsom was flirting with the Washington Senators.

JOINS TEAM SUNDAY

St. Louis, July 16, (AP)—Louis (Bobo) Newsom will appear with the St. Louis Browns in Sunday afternoon's double header with the Cleveland Indians, Browns President Don Barnes said tonight.

Barnes disclosed he talked with Newsom for a second time in several hours and the big right-hander said he would leave New York City by train tomorrow morning. He told Barnes he wanted to work in one of Sunday's games.

Since his addition to the Browns roster Wednesday in a trade which sent southpaw pitchers Fred Ostermueller and Archie McKain to the Brooklyn Dodgers, Newsom maintained he would never put on another Brownie uniform.

Barnes would not say whether he had offered Newsom an increase in salary.

Earlier in the day Newsom in a telephone conversation offered to buy his release but Barnes refused.

Small Fleet Enters Race To Mackinac

Chicago, July 16 (AP)—A fleet of 21 sailing yachts, the smallest in more than a decade, will set sail tomorrow in the Chicago Yacht club's 36th annual 333-mile race to Mackinac Island, Mich.—longest fresh-water event in the world.

Last year's entry drew 30 boats. The reduction was attributed to the fact that 27 per cent of Chicago's yachtsmen now are in the services, mainly the navy and coast guard.

Entries include yachts flying the burgees of five Chicago clubs, the Milwaukee Yacht club, South Shore (Milwaukee) and Racine, Wis., clubs.

WOMEN AT WAR WORK

Two million women will go to work against the Axis this year. Two million more will join them next year. The United States can supply 2,000,000 women a year for 10 years, if necessary, to the war production lines just from today's reserve of womanpower

Galloping Gunder Runs Toughest Test Today

BY RUSS NEWLAND

San Francisco, July 16 (AP)—Gunder Haegg, the Swedish streak, will run what should prove to be the toughest race of his American tour tomorrow.

Galloping Gunder, holder of most of the world's records from 1500 to 5000 meters, will take his prestige (he's mighty proud of it) over the distance of one mile.

The Swedish star will be running over this particular route for the first time in this country. Thus far he had made a show of it against opposition over two miles and 5000 meters.

Haegg's chief rival tomorrow at Kezar Stadium will be Gil Dodds, bespectacled divinity student from Boston. Dodds saw nothing but lanky Haegg's back in two-mile rambles in Chicago and Los Angeles but at half the distance confidently expects to make a better showing.

The one-mile event is the Bostonian's favorite run. He won the National A. A. U. 1500 meters, or metric mile, the last two years, his best time is seconds slower than Haegg's but at least in four laps he is rated more of a fighting chance.

Dodd's finest effort, plus the fair half-mile speed of another entry, John Fulton of Stanford University, may force the flying Swede to run his fastest mile. If he does he may regain his number one position in this event. He was supplanted only recently by his countryman, Arne Anderson. While Haegg was drawing acclaim in the United States, Anderson clicked off a mile in Sweden in 4:02.6, two seconds speedier than Gunder's mark.

Royce Park Boys Continue Assault On City Records

The Royce Park Athletes continued their assault on the all city athletic contest records during the past week with Clifford Weir, Jack Schils and Harold "Buddy" Webber breaking records in the junior and senior division.

Clifford Weir set a new mark of seven foot seven inches in the forward hop which erases the old mark of Francis Casey of seven foot two inches. Weir also set a new mark in the standing broad jump with a mark of eight feet six inches.

Jack Schils added to his list of records when he erased Bill Howles old mark of 13 feet 6 in., with a leap of 13 feet 8 inches. The last record to be set was the new softball throw mark of 161 feet by Budy Webber. This surpasses the mark of Ronald Johnson, which was made last week at Ludington Park.

BUSY WEEKEND FOR YACHTSMEN

Midsummer Regatta Sunday; Venetian Night On Monday

Four yachts will participate in the midsummer regatta Sunday, it has been announced. Participants will be C. W. Stoll's Rose of Sharon, John Mitchell's Oslo, Francis Boyce's Bonnie and Ed Erickson's Yankee.

The race, one of the outstanding events of the Escanaba Yacht club summer program, will begin promptly at one o'clock and will be under handicap rules, with the Rose of Sharon at scratch. The event is open to Gladstone or any other racing yachts.

The 1941 race was won by the Oslo and the 1942 event was declared no race by the regatta committee. A time limit of six hours is set for the 19 mile course.

The starter for the race will be George Ruwitch, local harbormaster, with a preparatory gun at 12:55 and the starting gun five minutes later.

Preparations also are going forward for the annual Venetian Night program which will be held Monday evening. An entry of 15 sail boats and nine power craft will participate in this event, as well as the U. S. Coast Guard patrol boat and fire tug and airplanes from the local flight school.

There will be no fireworks display this year because of wartime restrictions but red flares will be on all of the participating boats, making a very attractive silhouette against the setting sun and full moon.

A band concert will be held at the municipal bock as another feature of Venetian Night. No cars will be allowed on the dock.

BY BERNARD S. O'HARA

New York, July 16 (AP)—Inspired mainly by the exceptionally good war news, selected steels, rails, rubbers, utilities and specialties were given a smart recovery push in the early part of today's stock market although many backed away at the last.

The Associated Press 60-stock average finished unchanged at 52.9. Of 987 issues traded, 523 were up or unchanged and 374 down. The pace was sluggish at intervals and transfers totalled 1,040,750 shares compared with 1,223,050 the day before.

Steels exhibited strength in the morning in the wake of the U. S. Steel Export Co. survey indicating heavy post-war demand in this industry.

North American and U. S. lines were among favorites in the "new high" class. In front elsewhere were Bethlehem, Santa Fe, New Haven preferred, Chesapeake & Ohio, Goodyear, Sears Roebuck, Pepsi-Cola,: Western Union, Pacific Service of N. J., National Power & Light, Continental Motors, Pan American Airways, Pennsylvania-Central Airlines and Eastman Kodak. Losers included Chrysler, U. S. Steel, N. Y. Central, U. S. Rubber, American Can, Douglas Aircraft, Deere and J. I. Case.

In the curb improvement was retained by American Cyanamid "B," Cities Service and Phoenix Securities. On the offside were American Gas, Pantepec and standard Power & Light. Turnover here was 258,615 shares versus 386,710 Thursday.

New York, July 16 (AP)—Trends were mixed in the bond market today, selective buying lifting some of the medium-priced rails more than two points while the majority of the carrier liens were about unchanged to fractionally lower.

Among the more actively traded issues on the upside were those of the Rock Island, Missouri Pacific and St. Paul. Rock Island 4½s of '52 climbed a point, the 4s of '88 were up 1¼ and the refunding 4s up ⅝. Missouri Pacific general 4s were up 1½ at 26½ in good volume and the road's convertible 5½s gained 3-8. St. Paul 5s were up 2 1-8 at 42 3-8 and the adjusted 5s and general 4s each closed fractionally higher.

Laggard among the transportations were Baltimore & Ohio convertibles, Chicago & Alton 3s, Northwestern convertible 4⅜s, Florida East Coast 5s of '74 which were off 1 1-8, and Seaboard Air Line Consolidated 6s.

Volume for the full session amounted to $11,950,500, face value, against $10,001,500 Thursday.

Price changes were negligible in the balance of the corporate list. American Foreign Power 5s and American Telephone 3s each dropped 1-8 and Columbia Gas 5s of '61 gained ¾.

Foreign loans generally held to a narrow range. U. S. governments were quiet and steady in dealer markets.

Fauri Now Directs Two Departments; O'Connell Resigns

Lansing, July 15. (AP)—Control of Michigan's Social Security bureau and state department of welfare today rested in one executive as John D. O'Connell, who was named welfare department chief under former Governor Van Wagoner, took formal leave of his post.

F. F. Fauri, state Social Security director, assumed directorship of both departments as result of recent action by the state social welfare commission following O'Connell's resignation.

Consolidation of the two top welfare positions, long opposed by rural county supervisors who contended such action would set a precedent for county departments and result in patronage losses, has the approval of Governor Kelly.

O'Connell said he would return to private law practice in Detroit after finishing teaching duties at a technical school here.

Whether the two departments will remain long under one head remains to be seen since an attorney general's opinion had held that integraton of the positions was incompatible with the state welfare act.

Rayon Superiority In Tires Disputed

Washington, July 16 (AP)—The Truman war investigating committee urged in a report tonight that construction of additional facilities for the manufacture of rayon for tire cords be delayed until further tests have disclosed the relative value of cotton and rayon for this purpose.

The Senate committee declared that on the basis of tests "rayon has displayed no superiority over cotton to warrant the great investment in critical materials which is now being made to produce facilities for rayon cord."

Asserting that "strong profit possibilities" to chemical companies and cellulouse producers may be in the offing, the committee said that if rayon supplants cotton in tire-making the result may be "a disaster to the post-war economy of the south— loss of ten per cent of the domestic cotton market."

ready in Sicily, could deal successfully with the armored forces sent by Hitler to help the Italians resist invasion.

Thereafter, observers declared, the enemy will be forced to launch a defensive rearguard action and begin a withdrawal from the island.

Although British gunners had smashed the first-line tanks of the Goering division, the 15th German armored division was believed being held in reserve for further attempts to oppose the onrushing British columns.

Vizzini Changes Hands

The 15th division was said to be a collection of units originally destined for Tunisia. Organized after the fall of Tunisia, the units were given the name of the old 15th division which was wiped out in North Africa last May.

Earlier reports said the 15th German armored division had entered the fight against the British along with the Goering division, but confirmation was lacking.

Other British troops ran into stubborn resistance at Vizzini, about 25 miles inland from the east coast at a vital road junction on the second line of communications to which the enemy had fallen back.

The town changed hands several times before the British finally brought it securely under their control, putting them in command of the central highway connecting the eastern and western fronts of the axis. A further British advance from Vizzini would immediately menace the towns of Militello and Scordia at the western entrance to the Catania plain.

Airmen Rules Skies

While axis troops sought desperately to halt the ground advance, the enemy was powerless to cope with the overwhelming might of allied air and naval forces, whose ceaseless bombardment of Catania engulfed Sicily's ranking eastern port in flames.

The harbor city near the base of Mt. Etna was smoking like a volcano itself, according to the German radio, which reported the fuel dumps were ignited by repeated naval shelling and air attacks.

Allied warships bombarded the Catania airfield and other coastal positions of the enemy while fleets of allied sky raiders pounded the axis at every point of concentration on the island and smashed at vital shipping and industrial centers on the Italian mainland, almost at will.

On the southwestern front, the American Seventh army of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton Jr., which took five of the 12 new towns, some of them of the greatest strategic importance, was credited with the capture of 15,922 of the more than 20,000 prisoners now in allied hands.

The allied headquarters communique said "severe losses were inflicted upon the enemy" by the American Seventh army which "advanced several miles across difficult hill country and captured further important positions."

Showndown Near

The British Eighth army, the communique said, "made further progress against German troops who desperately contested every inch of the ground."

While the allied war bulletin declared "the speed of the advance is very satisfactory," it called attention to the limiting factor of allied transport and suppotring weapons at the present stage of the campaign.

(In a broadcast heard in London, the Rome radio declared that "the real and true decision for the island will be reached in a new battle which has already virtually started in the Catania plain.")

At an allied command post it was disclosed that in the British drive northward an important communication point near the coast was secured by the cooperation of air-borne and ground troops.

Official sources also disclosed that large numbers of tanks, guns and other booty had been captured.

Commenting on Italian claims that all allied parachute troops had been rounded up, these sources said: "All air-borne operations that have been carried out accomplished their missions. It is true that the Italians have announced several parachute attacks in areas where no such attacks were ever made and they may have rounded up those non-existent parachutists."

Private Cars Help In Akron Bus Strike

Akron, O., July 16. (AP)—The Office of Price administration today granted emergency gasoline rations to prevent a two-day mass transportation strike from crippling this airplane and rubber production center.

As leaders of the CIO United Transport Workers urged some 400 street car and bus drivers to end the walkout, spokesmen for major Akron companies said the tieup had little effect on war production because of the efficiency of of share-the-ride clubs.

Police helped prevent a bottleneck by supervising loading of private passenger cars at important intersections throughout the city. Pickup trucks from the city service departments also were utilized to haul workers to and from their jobs.

When washing knit goods, velveteens, or corduroys measure the garments before laundering, use mild soaps, and completely remove suds in rinsing.

Everybody Was Nervous Before Invasion -Pyle

BY ERNIE PYLE

Aboard a U. S. Navy Ship of the Invasion Fleet—(by wireless—delayed—Our ship has been in African waters many months but this invasion is the first violent action its' crew has ever been through. Only three or four men, who'd been torpedoed in the Pacific, had ever before had any close association with the probability of sudden death.

Pyle

I've come to know a great many of the sailors aboard and I know they went into this thing just as soldiers go into the first battle—seemingly calm but inside frightened and sick with worry. It's the lull in the last couple of days before starting that hits you so hard. In the preparation period your fate seems far away and once in action you are too busy to be afraid. It's just those last couple of days when you have time to think too much.

The night before we sailed I sat in the darkness on the forward deck helping half a dozen sailors eat a can of stolen pineapple. Some of the men of our little group were hardened and mature. Others were almost children. They all talked seriously and their gravity was touching. The older ones tried to rationalize how the law of averages made it unlikely our ship out of all the hundreds in action would be hit. They spoke of the inferiority of the Italian fleet and argued pro and con over whether Germany has some hidden Luftwaffe up her sleeve she might whisk out to destroy us. Younger ones spoke but little. They talked to me of their plans and hopes for going to college or getting married after the war, always epilogued by the phrase: "If I get through this fracas alive."

Hate to Give Up Future

As we sat there on the hard deck, squatting in a circle around our pineapple can like Indians, we all seemed terribly pathetic to me. Even the dizziest of us knew that within less than 48 hours many of us stood an excellent chance of being in this world no more. I don't believe one of us was afraid of the physical part of dying. That isn't the way it is. Your emotion is rather one of almost desperate reluctance to give up your future. I suppose that seems like splitting hairs and that it really all comes under the heading of fear yet somehow to us there is a difference.

These gravely yearned-for futures of men going into battle include so many things—things such as seeing "the old lady" again, of going to college, of staying in the Navy for a career, of holding on your knee just once your own kid whom you've never seen, of becoming again champion salesman of your territory, of driving a coal truck around the streets of Kansas City once more and, yes, even of just sitting in the sun once more on the south side of a house in New Mexico.

When you huddle around together on the dark decks on your last wholly secure night it's these little hopes and ambitions that make up the sum total of your worry at leaving rather than any visualization of physical agony tomorrow.

Our deck and the shelf-like deck above us was dotted with little groups huddled around talking. You couldn't see them but you could hear them. I deliberately listened around for awhile. Every group was talking in some way about their chances of survival. A dozen times I overheard this same remark: "Well, I don't worry about it because I look at it this way. If your number's up then it's up and if it ain't you'll come through no matter what."

But They Were Lying

Every single person who expressed himself that way was a liar and knew it but, hell, a guy has to say something on the last night. I heard oldsters offering to make bets at even money we wouldn't get hit at all and 2 to 1 we wouldn't get hit seriously. Those were the offers but I don't think any bets actually were made.

Somehow it seemed sort of sacrilegious to bet on your own life.

Once I heard somebody in the darkness start cussing and give this answer to some sailor critic who was proclaiming how he'd run things:

"Well, I figure that Captain up there in the cabin has got a little more in his noggin than you have or he wouldn't be Captain, so I'll put my money on him."

And another sailor voice chimed in with, "Hell, yes, that Captain has slept through more watches than you and I have spent time in the Navy."

And so it went on that last night of safety. I never heard anybody say anything patriotic like the storybooks have people saying. There was philosophizing but it was simple and undramatic. I'm sure no man would have stayed ashore if given the chance. There was something bigger than the awful dread that would have kept them there. With me it probably was an irresistible egotism in seeing myself part of the historic naval movement. With others it was, I think, just the application of plain, ordinary, unspoken, even unrecognized, patriotism.

OREL DOOMED; REDS ADVANCE ON VITAL CITY

"intensive reconnaissance activities," the communique said.

The German radio said Marshal Semeon Timoshenko was directing the Russian attack which "is now extended to the whole Orel bulge." The broadcast by transocean's militar correspondent, Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, recorded by the Associated Press, admitted that the Russians had begun counter-attacks in the sector south of Orel.

Ration Board Theft Denied By Suspect

Detroit, July 16. (AP)—Michael Kuzenko of Detroit pleaded innocent in recorder's court today to a charge of breaking and entering the office of ration board No. 82-37, here. The charge also included a count for larceny.

Kuzenko, who, according to police, has a criminal record, was ordered to post $2,000 bond.

Patrolmen Charles Rumsey and Ray Schuett, of the identification bureau, who arrested Kuzenko after identifying his prints in the board office, said that he admitted the theft of 7,607 gasoline ration books and 2,504 miscellaneous certificates. Some of the books, the policemen stated, were found in his home.

New Chief Named For U. S. Military Forces In Britain

London, July 16. (AP)—Maj. Gen. Leonard Townsend Gerow, former chief of the United States army staff's war plans division and later commander of the 29th division was named today commander of the expandng United States forces in Britain as they were being primed to strike at the continent.

The appointment came as a birthday present for the Virginia Military Institute graduate who was 55 years old yesterday.

Gardens Invaded By Cabbage Worms

East Lansing, July 16. (AP)—The cabbage worm is on the march in Michigan victory gardens and control measures should be taken "before the crop of worms is larger than the crop of cabbage," the Michigan State college specialists warned today.

Disclosing the college had received "frantic" telephone calls from gardeners reporting attacks by the worms, Ray Hutson, head of the entomology department, said a spot check of gardens disclosed the pest to be numerous in most cabbage plantings.

Hutson said rotenone dusts were the best worm repellant, but that arsenicals or cryolite mixtures might also be used if cabbages treated with them are trimmed carefully before table use.

U-BOAT PACKS ARE DEFEATED BY FLAT TOPS

nite kill."

That wolf-pack was licked, and more important, not a single sub had been able to get within 18 miles of the convoy.

Back in action again on convoy patrol in the Atlantic, the little carrier beat off a second wolf-pack which slipped in to attack at dusk, converging on the merchantmen from all directions.

Two Avengers scored the first hits, dumping their depth bombs around a submarine, which "was unquestionably damaged."

Simultaneously other bombers attacked two U-boats on opposite sides of the convey. Each straddled its target, but neither pilot claimed "the captain's hat" although both said they were sure they had inflicted damage.

In a parting shot at this wolf-pack the following morning, another U-boat was bombed miles away from the convoy, with tangible evidence of a kill.

The final engagement in the series, the navy said, was one of the shortest, lasting only 28 minutes and ending in "bringing back the captain's hat." Four Avenger bombers and two Wildcat fighters cooperated to destroy a submarine on the surface in a series of quick-punching bombing and strafing attacks. The submarine blew up and 17 of its crew were captured.

Denver Detectives Hunt AWOL Private And Find Two More

Denver, July 16. (AP)—Hunting for an army private absent without leave from Camp Carson, City Detectives Sam Finnie and Clarence Jones cruised up to the house of the soldier's sweetheart.

On the front porch they found a soldier—not the one they wanted—but he was AWOL. Inside they found another soldier, AWOL, but not the right one.

Finally a third soldier—the private the detectives were seeking—arrived. He had been on an errand. The trio told officers they left camp after pay day and went broke in Denver.

Bridge Crash Kills Marquette Driver

Marquette, Mich., July 16 (AP)—Believed to have suffered a heart attack, during which he stepped on the accelerator instead of the brake, Daniel A. Tierney, 53, was fatally injured tonight when the car he was driving hit the concrete bridge over the Carp river on US-41 near the branch prison grounds. It was traveling at a high rate of speed, witnesses said.

In the crash, Tierney, thrown from the car, landed on the pavement 15 feet away and parts of the motor were hurled as far as 400 feet. Tierney died on admittance to St. Mary's hospital.

engaged in the deadly assault. "Targets are becoming scarcer by the hour."

Dovetailing with the ceaseless onslaught from North Africa, American Liberator bombers of the Middle East command struck at the foot of the Italian mainland, setting forest fires with their incendiaries and ripping apart three enemy airfields at Foggia. Many planes were caught on the ground and destroyed in a repetition of the pre-invasion aerial attack on Sicily.
